

Live Music & Events at Saluda Outfitters and Green River Eddy's Tap Room & Grill

Friday, Dec. 1, 7-10 p.m. | Arnold Hill Band is an alternative rock band based out of the Great Smoky Mountains of WNC. The band is identified by its lyrical storytelling, rich three-part harmonies and dynamic instrumentation. The group released "How to Run" in 2021. Band members include Mike Yow, guitar/lead vocals; Sam McCarson, bass/vocals; Adam Blythe, guitar/vocals; and Heath Brown, drums/vocals. Formed in 2011, the band is named for a road in Jackson County where the band members lived and practiced.

Saturday, Dec. 2, 7-10 p.m. | Kit Lindsey, a singer/songwriter hailing from Greenbrier, W. Va., is backed by bluegrass pickers to help her pair big sky honkytonk with messages that feel authentically Appalachian. Her robust voice is perfect for cowgirl blues. Growing up singing with her parents in church, she developed an early love of gospel, classic rock and folk music. Kit's songwriting draws on the folk ballad and her live shows are reminiscent of the great outlaws of country music. Locals may remember her from her first band, West of Caroline.

Friday, Dec. 8, 7-10 p.m. | Take 3 Band of Greenville/Spartanburg area of South Carolina plays a variety of classic country to familiar rock songs. The band consists of Shaun Mitchell on guitar, vocals and harmonica; Ken Kallenbach on bass and vocals; and Rich Pocock on drums. Veteran musicians, the band members are native to the area and love sharing some "good old rock'n'roll."

Saturday, Dec. 9, 7-10 p.m. | Seth & Sara from Asheville are a husband/wife duo that puts their special touch on Americana rock/pop/country music. Much of their show focuses on passionate and emotional originals of songwriter Seth Brand, who is winner of three Indi.com original songwriter awards. With Seth on guitar and Sara on percussion, the couple performs heartfelt and inspiring tunes.

Friday, Dec. 15, 7-10 p.m. | Melody Lane, a popular duo from South Carolina, consists of Peter "PJ" Teague and Jennifer Lewis. The talented duo's music crosses various genres; including bringing back some of the oldies like "Be My Baby." Established in 2021, the duo has been hitting the south east week after week bringing a cross genre sound and take on music from the 50s to modern day hits and everything in between. Between loop pedals, harmonicas, pianos, and accordions you'll never know what's next. Each show is a unique experience but one thing to expect is that you'll be singing along and immersed in good vibes.

Saturday, Dec. 16, 7-10 p.m. | Izzy Hughes & Eric Congdon are local singer/songwriters who have joined musical forces to bring their individual artistic talents to the stage. A solo artist from Hendersonville, Izzy Hughes began making her way onto the music scene at a very young age when she started playing guitar and writing original songs. Eric Congdon's finger-picking style radiates skill and charm and his instrumental material incorporates everything from blues to bluegrass. Together, the ultra-talented duo plays originals and cover songs from all genres and decades.

Friday, Dec. 22, 7-10 p.m. | Charlie Alexander and Company is best characterized as a country music group; however, country doesn't say it all. While the band plays a lot of originals, you can expect covers from the likes of Tyler Childers, Sturgill Simpson and Tom Petty to name a few. Growing up in the foothills of Appalachia, lead singer/songwriter Charlie Alexander Saunders soaked in all the music and culture of the area, slowly cultivating his original sound. The event promises a fun evening of live covers and originals.

Saturday, Dec. 23, 7-10 p.m. | Finkelstein Three is a trio headed by local talent Derek McCoy on guitar/vocals with Tommy Brooks on mandolin/vocals and Phil Simmons on upright bass. Finkelstein Three is a progressive bluegrass trio, playing everything from Bill Monroe to The Beatles. They are based in both Henderson and Cleveland counties in North Carolina.

Friday, Dec. 29, 7-10 p.m. | JackTown Ramblers is a Morganton-based bluegrass, swing and gypsy jazz band featuring Shannon Leasure (guitar/banjo), Gabriel Wiseman (lead vocals/mandolin), Brett Setzer (banjo/vocals) and Mike Ramsey (bass/vocals). The band formed in 2019 from a collection of "acoustic ramblers" who met through mutual friends and musical interests. Collectively, they just wanted to do something a little different with their music by melding together traditional bluegrass with sprinkles of swingy feeling tunes, band originals and some gypsy jazz type material just for fun. Hailed as one of the busiest working bands in the region, you don't want to miss this group's unique style of fun and truly talented music.

Saturday, Dec. 30, 7-10 p.m. | Fancy & The Gentlemen Trio is based out of Asheville and brings an eclectic mix of honkytonk, blues, southern gothic, outlaw country and classical roots twist to Americana. The group's sensitive and rich harmonies weave through the tapestry of original compositions and carefully curated covers that celebrate the roots of southern Americana music. The trio is anchored by talented guitarist and singer/songwriter Fancy Marie.

Sunday, Dec. 31, 6:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. | New Year's Eve Party with Holden Pace and Borderline Therapy: Make your reservations now and ring in 2024 in style with party favors, live music by two great bands, food, drinks and tons of fun. Doors will close to the public at 5 p.m. and reopen to reservation holders at 6:30 p.m. Music starts at 7 p.m. with Saluda native and Hendersonville resident Holden Pace's opening act. Headlining the evening is Borderline Therapy of Landrum, S.C. The 5-member band will take over the stage at 9 p.m. and entertain until 12:30 a.m. Expect to hear an eclectic mix of rock and country from the 60s to the 2000s. We'll celebrate at midnight with a free champagne toast. Tickets are $20 (with the option of ordering off Eddy's menu) or $40 to include a New Year's Eve appetizer trio of beef tenderloin sliders with peppercorn steak sauce, mushroom butter and buttermilk fried shallots; smoked crab cakes with Cajun remoulade; and crispy layered potatoes with crème fraiche, crumbled bacon and chives. Call (828) 848-4060 between 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. daily (except Tuesdays) to reserve your seats. For more information, email info@saludaoutfitters.com.
